

Chicken:

- 800 g skinless chicken breast boneless, cut into 1 inch cubes
- 20 ml shaoxing wine or dry sherry
- 20 ml light soy sauce
- 8 g baking soda
- 2 g cornstarch cornflour

Sauce:

- 125 ml low-sodium chicken stock or broth - water can be used
- 100 ml light soy sauce
- 40 ml Chinese black vinegar or substitute good-quality balsamic vinegar
- 40 ml Chinese Shaoxing wine or dry sherry
- 10 ml dark soy sauce
- 10 ml hoisin sauce
- 35 g sugar
- 2 g cornstarch cornflour

Stir Fry:

- 80 ml cooking oil divided
- 16 g garlic 4-6 cloves
- 10 g ginger
- 1/2 red bell pepper seeded and diced
- 1/2 green bell pepper seeded and diced
- 8-10 dried chilies cut into 1/2-inch pieces (adjust to taste)
- 14 g Sichuan peppercorns lightly toasted and ground
- 4 green onion scallion stems, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 80 g roasted unsalted peanuts
- 10 ml sesame oil optional

Instructions

1. Combine all ingredients for the chicken in a shallow bowl; cover and marinate for 10 minutes (if time allows).
2. Whisk sauce ingredients together until sugar dissolves; set aside.
3. Heat a large skillet, pan or wok over high heat. Add 2 tablespoons of cooking oil, allow to heat up, then add marinated chicken. Fry chicken for 3-4 minutes while occasionally stirring, until edges are browned. Remove from heat and set aside.

4. Add remaining cooking oil into the same pan/wok. Stir in garlic, ginger, chili diced peppers (capsicums) and Sichuan peppercorns and stir fry for 1 minute.

5. Give the prepared sauce a mix, then pour it into the pan and bring it to a boil while stirring.

6. Once it begins to thicken slightly, add chicken back into the pan/wok and mix all of the ingredients through the sauce until the chicken is evenly coated and sauce has thickened, (about 2 minutes).

7. Stir in green onions, peanuts and sesame oil. Toss well and continue to cook for a further 2 minutes to infuse all of the flavours together.

8. Serve immediately with steamed/cooked rice or fried rice!
